Dear Harold,

Thanks so much for taking the time to write me about Connie Kritzberg and "Dallas Did It" — it was wonderful to hear from you.

I have passed your info about Caddy on to her. Seems he was quite a busy boy! She sends her thanks and will check into the info you sent.

You have a good idea re citing the Parkland press conference. I have the transcript and will send it to her.

The letter ~~from~~ to Madeleine Brown from LBJ's attorney is the only paper trail she has that confirms her relationship and son with LBJ. I think that letter is pretty good confirmation. You are correct that the rest of her story and recollections pretty much rely on her word. I have spoken to Madeleine and am struck with how open and straightforward & disaffected she is. She does not put on any airs, doesn't try to come up with anything "telling", but rather just says things the way she remembers them. If she is incorrect about any of it, I am convinced it's bad memory, not bull by design.

Livingstone was after Brown to let him publish her book. She kept telling him no, but he kept after her. From what I have been told, he tried to tell her that she had given him permission. I believe her lawyer even contacted him. Obviously, he went ahead. As far as I know, she has not sued him but is waiting to see what happens from here on out. She may feel torn between being glad her book is out and being upset at how he did this — just my opinion on it.

I am looking forward to the ARRB releasing the medical evidence they have been working on and the depositions from the autopsists — hopefully we can glean some new info — and truth — from it.

I am checking into the hospital Thursday morning for surgery (hysterectomy), so won't be spending much time at my computer "doing JFK" for at least a couple of weeks. It will afford me lots of time to read though, and I am looking forward to that part of it.
